Headline

-Presentation. Call for papers.-

For the eighth consecutive year will be held SPDECE. This is an event that provides an open framework for educators and computer specialists to discuss progress in the implementation of new technologies in education, covering aspects such as new teaching and learning environments, content standards and metadata, Learning Objects and Learning Designs and teaching materials in digital format.

SPDECE focuses on new training systems and electronic learning, based on the design of digital content. The topics include how to achieve greater flexibility and reuse of content for use in different learning contexts. This year the symposium is dedicated to the management and exploitation of knowledge models in educational practice.
